These are the countries left that are not working for the enemy in the Middle East. Hold tight because this is all we've got left outside of Zimbabwe and North Korea for the fight against the construction of the Third Temple. Libya now also works for the enemy along with Egypt sending troops into Yemen. Turkey is also run by the enemy where their founder is Mustafa Ataturk who was a freemason. What makes me correct about this is that we are lead to believe in the West that Saudi Arabia is running the show and wants to keep altering the Middle East as a long term investment, it will cost too much to build back up again and for some reason they don't want the wars to end unless if they win. They will go so far to have the USA work on their behalf, this is not believable. They don't need to wreck Syria because of Iran, let's forget how illegal that is in Islam. Syria is not an aggressor; they would be against the Zionists and America. They don't need to end Iran, US troops would do that for them in theory but I know that the Arab Gulf Council is in on it, Gaddafi exposed the Saud's.

I will remember everything that I typed here, someone just has to refresh my memory here. What's important is that even if I forget it, I can still sign off that I wrote it and still agree with it or learn it again years later. I'm aware this is not sorted well some of it is serious some of it isn't; the purpose is to summarize the wars in the middle east dating back to the October War. If someone wants to sort this for me, I will be very grateful for your help.

Case for Palestine

1. I can't make you into a humanitarian or anti war

2. I can't convert you to Islam

3. I can't show you Christian persecution in Palestine

4. I can't show you the Zionists own America

5. I can't show you Christianity is not compatible with America but is compatible with Palestine

6. I can't show you the Bible denounces Zionism

7. I can't show you this will bring the Anti-Christ

8. You think I'm pushing Sharia Law at home or are an anti-Semite for opposing them

9. You think I'm trying to "wipe Israel off the map"

Speaking on behalf of Americans, many of them fall under these categories: they want nothing to do with the Middle East (that's the majority trust me on this), they want Islam as an enemy (don't take that the wrong way) because of 9/11 they view you as a barbarian, they put social policies at home first as a priority, they think America is demanding all of your oil sources, they have no knowledge about your region/ don't follow in part because they follow their home countries from abroad conflicts, they are more concerned about left or right wing economic based wars (that used to be me), they think each (not all) countries and their citizens wants war with each other, they think you are deliberately oppressing all women in your countries, or they think you and/or your countries are plotting to kill us here in America. Many people here put America and its safety first not seeing the damage it is doing to your homeland. The message you and I are sending is not and will not get across to people in America because the anti war protests work under the notion that these wars are for oil or to sell weapons to your countries. I would say fewer than 8% maybe lower here support you and unfortunately some are doing it out of hatred of America. Within it, some may support you and want you to change who you are at home but they do not expect it so this makes their support only worse off. Just remember that our common enemy will take any movement or anyone that helps as long as they/it are against the fundamentals of the followers of Abrahamic religions Judaism, Christianity, and Islam (I think this applies to Zoroastrians too, you might be their enemy as well; your hearts are good by the way). This is far bigger than just occupation and giving up Palestinian nationality because we follow Thou Shall Not Kill. Our enemy needs to kill those in their way because no one would give up being Palestinian. We cannot and will not be pinned against each other. They even leave us geo illiterate in the public schools in America (textbooks, not teachers if you are reading this saying "not me"). Part of the reason as to why we do not believe them is because we are servants of Allah, whereas they want us to be servants of them as their Goyim. I don't hate these people, I just understand them; this isn't written in anger. I might never personally understand your intense disapproval towards them even those barely affected by them. That's why I write this, because I seriously doubt I could do better in your shoes ignoring them than you are currently doing and I thank you for it. Keep living your life, that's the last thing they want from you. There could be more enemies of theirs; I'm not sure if nationalists outside one of their international banks are classified. As long as they lead the pack, they will take you in. I will give it to you straight, if you aren't in our movements and you want independence from these people or you just want some power, we are on the same team. Many of their soldiers do not want to fight their whole life which should be telling enough that whatever they are doing isn't working. There is plenty of room for dialogue, I don't care what you get from it, just help us and that's it. Better we fund people who know what they are doing than get people who don't know why we chose them. I say we because this will most likely be a joint pack. This revolt will be 100% religious based. It may or may not happen in my lifetime, my instinct says no.

What this comes down to is if their economy crashes and the citizens want to leave, if it doesn't than we were mislead to revolt and it was the wrong answer. We do not want to attack but open their borders and shut off their nukes because those will destroy the Middle East and I do not want to sound like I'm advocating for it because I am never. They want us to fight them. These are smart people; they've started over five wars but claim that they were under attack or just say both sides wanted it. This is a classic example of a spin which is not the truth. If in one of these wars, these people did not push their neighbors into a war or did not start it, please feel free to correct me. Lying only makes things worse for us. We have such a case for them being on the offensive that the general public will almost have to believe us. They know that they cannot just march into Egypt and take land. What they will argue in the future is that all religions live in peace in their Zionist state so if we care about our religions we should join their side for peace but if the people of the Middle East do that, then they are no longer Lebanese, Palestinians, Egyptians you get the point. They would tell you that the people of the Middle East declared war on them for living in their homeland because it is "their land promised to them" and that their neighbors are the "occupiers." I dispute this because Bashar Al Assad had made a claim that the Syrians have the most Semitic blood in them (I believe him) and the citizens want to live under Syria. We strongly believe that the Ashkenazi Jews living were converts who lived in an empire known as the Kingdom of Khazaria during the Middle Ages. Also, they want lower birth rates of Muslims, Christians etc. In exchange, you get money; you get to live in their state, all while you betray your previous country that gave you a chance, that's the agreement. They know the Palestinians will never give up on Palestine. I'm not dumb and I see how there is a higher percentage of Christians in Palestine than in their Zionist state so by default I support Palestine. The Palestinians rightly feel cheated because Syria is not sending troops to help them. If Syria sends troops, they will be sanctioned by the UN by a claim of "escalating the conflict", this will just hinder Syria's reputation in the long run. I am not saying Syria is right or wrong to look the other way. In the West Bank, the Palestinians don't even have a military which should tell you that something is wrong there. They also want groups such as Al Nusra Front to attack the Zionists. Al Nusra Front agrees to because they really do believe that they will win. That's why Bashar Al Assad says that the Syrian War is about the next generation, they have to be kept safe from Syria ever collapsing. These groups will keep coming back up because they have "Islam" in their slogan which confuses people who think Syria is not an Islamic country. FSA and Al Nusra Front try to overthrow Assad, they send in fighters from Turkey and Jordan. The operation fails; they create "ISIS" as a third enemy in Syria to fight Assad. "ISIS" was suppose to ally with Kurds. "ISIS" has weapons left over from the Iraq War. FSA is dead, US hopes for Al Nusra to win. They have the best weapons. We can't tell which videos are Al Nusra Front and "ISIS" since they both dress in black. If Al Nusra Front won, they would create a generation to declare war on Israel. An oil pipeline set up by Qatar, Saudi Arabia, Syria, and Turkey was rejected by Assad in 2009. This would have helped oil reach Europe much faster. Assad had accepted a Syria, Iran, and Iraq pipeline instead.

What people seem to overlook is that in both Iraq and Syria, they don't want these rebels groups in them even if I did think it is time for a West Iraq, the Iraq military will take them out. Most Sunni's in Iraq do not trust Shiites and feel that Iraq will turn into a Shiite satellite for Iran. Iraq has a long ways go to in order to get fixed. Many secular Sunnis have joined groups such as Hamas in Gaza, just now they have abandoned "ISIS" which is to their benefit but they still join political parties such as the Baathists which put their lives at risk. Sunni's in general are losing in the countries such as Lebanon and Iraq, we can speculate another war in Lebanon in the future with Sunni's against the Shia's. No country would allow something like this in theirs where they take up arms against the countries military, now we have to pay to get them out it's bad economics at its core. As you notice, they keep taking pieces of land from the West Bank in the disguise of "peaceful settlers". That is betraying those who died in order for us to live. This is not for revenge but to win. The people in Gaza at no point wanted any part of this. As I alluded to before, do not listen to Russian military leaders, they could be deceiving you in order to make us lose. Defect from them immediately. I'm not saying don't defend your homeland Russia if it is under attack, I'm just saying do not get caught up in Ukraine when a group is pushing forward or backward. If war were to simultaneously break out in both the Middle East and Ukraine or if I were forced to go to Ukraine, I'm not going to Ukraine and that is final. If you are stationed in the Middle East, you have to defect. It took Russia two years to join in the conflict and from my understanding that was after the Syrian government started to win. Now Bashar Al Assad is depicted as a puppet of Russia which makes matters worse. Go join groups that are funded directly by Iran or if you don't trust them, make your own. You do not get our support if you want a nuclear war to happen; we will fight you as well because we will never nuke Palestine or anywhere else because of the land, hate, and revenge attack from it. In the meantime, we will keep arming groups who are in defense of their countries. If not, they will be treated as liberators in Lebanon where wars do not end and the people there will surrender for peace but I doubt they ever would. Every group must serve Lebanon not the Zionists or else they are our enemy. Hopefully a ceasefire can be reached including the groups that side with the Zionists groups as a whole because threatening them or aggravating them leads to war which is not good. They might control most of our politicians, but they do not control us at home. This includes the citizens of Egypt, Jordan, Saudi Arabia, Turkey, Iraq, Kuwait Syria, and can't forget Palestine. They also refer to you as an Arab in their country which robs you of your nationality; you are no longer a Palestinian if you live there but you can disagree with what they are doing to you of course. This is why they cannot just declare war on all of their neighbors and evict the majority because their own citizens and much of the rest of the world would not allow it.

Politics is NOT religion. You have no right to claim that I am oppressing you because I did not let you succeed or let you run your own taxation system. We need funding, if you don't want to be part of the country then just leave, you won't get your own separate city, then what ends out happening is that we have to move you. You ancestors were trusted with the land, that was your choice to succeed based on "not making enough money" which shows that you serve money. We will let you succeed, what will do is is wait for your country to collapse; it is all caused by you. You have NO right to target Assad, he did everything he could to give you your own state within a state, you would not want me. Now because of the Arab Spring, you claim all of these rights that were never there. Also, you don't take armaments from countries that are NOT Islamic, I would invade too; this is not a joke. Assad doesn't want to break your heart, I will, I will show you all of the countries that are not Islamic, I gave you the option to leave Syria and you didn't. You've lost both the election and the war, how about you just leave Syria as a whole? You know nothing about unification and now you got innocent people involved with this. The enemy would love if Syria collapsed, don't tell me that in the future there will be a "better" Syria. Aren't you the lucky one? I would have had a one child policy for Syria.

Part of me thinks that they are stuck with Palestine for now and will just stay at a two state solution and attack Lebanon in the meantime. Again, I know it is difficult for you to rationalize a religious war. We do not want war from them but if they declare war on us we must strike back in our defense. If it helps, think of the 600,000 Palestinians who are dead as a result of their interpretation of Zionism. I'm not looking to shame you, but what if this happened to you or one your loved ones? I would be furious if I was forced out of my country, had my home blown up, get insulted by the occupiers, and saw people cheering from another country. This is not an accident; it is what Allah intended for, you have feelings and you care. Palestine is the underdog you cheer for in the movies and that is fact. Their will does not go unnoticed. Where you fit in is for you to decide or you can opt out of course and be neutral. We will offer you far more control than them. If you are an anti war globalist I guess that is fine so long as you admit to it to the public and you don't attack us but chances are you already aren't on our side. We will even fund third parties who fight both us and the Zionists. Remember, these people hide/spin information, steal, lie, bribe, distract, label you, impose agents on you, and create movements to divide your supporters if you don't do ask they tell. They will shut your country down if you are not part of their UN charter and will replace you overnight, now do you see why we take this seriously? Who would you rather have as an ally?

FSA and Al Nusra Front try to overthrow Assad, they send in fighters from Turkey and Jordan. The operation fails; they create "ISIS" as a third enemy in Syria to fight Assad. "ISIS" was suppose to ally with Kurds. "ISIS" has weapons left over from the Iraq War. FSA is dead, US hopes for Al Nusra to win. They have the best weapons. We can't tell which videos are Al Nusra Front and "ISIS" since they both dress in black. If Al Nusra Front won, they would create a generation to declare war on Israel.

Qatar, Saudi Arabia, Syria, and Turkey pipeline was rejected by Assad in 2009. This would have helped oil reach Europe much faster. Assad had accepted a Syria, Iran, and Iraq pipeline instead.

I want someone to read this as if it is their own family who dreams are now crushed and decide if it is worth it or not to get rid of Assad because more people will have to accept that what may not be perfect is now gone.

Traps someone had tried to use and extras included:

Greed- Assad lives in a Palace

He crushed the Revolution- elections did, why should I care?

Government has too many jobs- if they open the markets up, the country will collapse by outsiders

Cannot work your way up- country is poor...duh?

Protests were necessary- false, the economy tanked because of the Arab Spring, this is a trap

Peaceful protests- correct, at first they were peaceful. However terrorists hid in them

Syrian government must be overthrown- no, some bold killers it would be smart for them to rebel for money. Qatar is giving over $50,000 for families of defectors. Suppose Syria was to fail, these killers would not be able to decide who holds what seat. Their greed is their downfall. Many of them are spies too.

His police shot at protesters- false, paid mercenaries shot at police

Chemical weapons- false, done by Al Nusra Front

Civilian causalities- yes that happens in wars

Dictator- false, he had over 90% of the ballot, Assad would gladly leave

Sunni's disapprove of him- false, the majority of the Syrian Military is Sunni at 64%

FSA is legitimate- false, it has almost faded now and they give arms to "ISIS" and Al Nusra Front

FSA should be allowed to separate- they allow foreigners to give them arms so the answer is no

Russian Puppet- No, Russia got involved two years into the war.

Iranian Satellite- Fair accusation, he supports Palestine with Iran, however Iran does not install leaders

Religious Persecution- I have not heard this one yet, he has rebuilt Synagogues and Churches.

Too much Terrorism in Syria- the US has the largest amount of terrorists; it is called the US military. Who do you think funded "ISIS"....? 15 billion dollars go to the Zionists a year to further expand into the West Bank.

The leader HAS to go the best of intent, worst of results. This goes beyond communist and capitalist, somebody HAS to win. This is freedom verse enforcers. If the Sunni enforcers win, the Shiite's will rebel in anger. It is true that the enforcers (FSA soldiers) have good intent, but they do not see the consequences of what will come of it. This is not Vietnam where South Vietnam surrenders one day, nobody wants to surrender. I make the case for Bashar Al Assad not because I do not care if it is Shiite lead but because I know in my heart that Syria will turn into Iraq. Saddam was big on freedom and no one condemned him because he was a Sunni. With hope and prayers this conflict shall cease.

Here is a map of both the Wahhabists and Salafists. The Wahhabists will target your troops; the Salafists will target your civilians. Evict the Wahhabists and I strongly consider executing all Salafists in the countries listed in Europe, Asia, and Africa. A friend told me that in Libya, these so called "ISIS" fighters target all of the Mosques in Libya, these fighters are insane and under mind control. Terrorism is evil and this is what it is, it is disguised as good as hope for the future yet they are not democratic in any way and chose to kill innocent civilians. They are not honest to the public and lack any rules to war.

The Wahhabists in Saudi Arabia believe that all other denominations of Islam must go, that's their priority. By state recognition or rather fact all Christians are considered Muslims but they don't allow for Churches in their country. They willingly broke the Constitution of Medina; they have to allow for Churches to be there. I highly doubt there is any animosity towards Christians. However, in Saudi Arabia, Shiites are not allowed to be used as witnesses in court. A Christian, can go there, beat up a Shiite in their neighborhood and the courts will almost for a certainty find me innocent if I grinned and said "he struck me first" and there would be no witnesses to find the Shiite innocent of hitting me. For sake of this example, just think that this event had taken place before I had accepted Muhammad as Allah's final Prophet because I am a Sunni. It goes to show how stupid some people are if they spent 20 plus years studying Wahhabism and they argued against the Constitution of Medina, now you are wasting my time as I am a Mufti. It is all evil; they (being Satan and his allies) have come up with names and ways to control people to make them believe they are fighting for Islam. It is the same root of evil that we know today as Zionism or freemasonry. This includes the "free syrian army" fighting for "democracy"; the difference being what is promised to the Syrians is destruction of Syria with the next generation being at war with each other as outlined by Bashar Al-Assad in an interview.

You would be making a fool out of yourself in that conversation with me; you are arguing what is fact. That is physical evidence that the one Hadith verse you quote was added in later and you mistranslated it, you even overlooked many pages by multiple authors saying "no persecution allowed". This is what happens to some people, they want everything their way somehow thinking Saudi Arabia would be better off not having Christians but accepting them as foreign workers. Look at Bahrain; it is far worse off treating Shiite's like second class citizens. You might very well think you are in America where their Constitution can add and subtract Amendments; that must have been where you got the idea from. That is how stupid you are to argue with me. My only advice would be to go outside and meet a Christian, tell him you think he should not have a Church in Arabia but then tell him that it is persecution if his home country doesn't allow for a Mosque. If it requires you getting laughed at is what it takes to get you to realize what People of the Book means, I will join that guy in laughing at you. I will try to relate with you- I too didn't understand why we should allow Pagan worship in our countries, but Allah is that great that those people are allowed in our countries so long as they defend it, they get the same rights we get. This is about liberation, not fighting with those who don't agree with being People of the Book. I agree with you 100% that the Quran is a dream come true. Where in the Zoroastrian text, Torah, Bible, or Quran does it say that you can force convert or harm People of the Book? Wahhabism is purposely falsely classified as Sunni where there are 85% Sunni. It is meant to wage war on Sunni's. I now think that in the Arab gulf council, they have to make high salaries, there would be outrage in these countries if they only made a $6,000 yearly salary seeing as the Saud's are leading campaigns against Iraq, Syria, Yemen, and Lebanon someone must be saying "what is going on here?!" Faisal knew otherwise, hence why he was assassinated. So many people who live or visit Saudi Arabia couldn't care less about Iraq; it's all about me, me, me, me got to be short with other people. These people don't get it; you don't condemn America but expect other countries to fix the mess that you could have been against. That is hypocrisy because if your Saudi Arabia invaded America, you would condemn whoever invaded you don't blame the American people for a war you now support. How can you not spend two seconds to type into the internet to see that you are working with American troops? Others might just be saying "this will end soon", no it won't here is my proof. America left Iraq and now everyone knows they have their hand in Iraq. While I cannot say that Saudi Arabia is directly funding them, many rich people from within Saudi Arabia are arming Salafist groups.....see what I did there? They are fighting Islam and they know it, if they knew that there would be consequences, I know the majority of them would go back to playing Xbox. People's lives are at risk, not yours you evil son of a bitch. How does it feel to know that you would leave

Saudi Arabia if not for the money? Not one of you could beat me in a fight, you know who you are. Why don't you personally take a trip to Iraq and tell them what you are doing, see what happens. See how this is all going to fail at some point? Saudi Arabia has all of the information on these snakes but they will not reveal it to the public. Keep this up, watch as we take Bahrain from them.

Americans are free to go visit Saudi Arabia infact they will treat you like one of their own although you are only allowed to stay for two years. The Wahhabists are taught in schools to hate all non Wahhabists that does not stretch to any real Sunni-Shia group. That's why they strike Yemen. This is why Kuwait undercut the oil in the 90's. They will let the Zionists take part of Arabia because they are not their worry. An Al Qaeda member who was under the enemies hospitalization from the Syrian War said and I quote "Israel is my friend." Bashar Al Assad referred to Wahhabism as the "Wahhabi ideology," I take it as the same as "the Conservatism ideology." Pay close attention to this sentence, if you talk to a Wahhabist representative and you ask the question "do you support killing, forced sterilization, force conversions, or peaceful means to end all Sunni and Shiite Muslims?" They must respond with the answer "yes" and maybe they will also say "we believe those are not the true Sunni's" because of Wahhabist doctrine or else they are deceiving you or they are wrong about their own Wahhabism. There is also no Caliph within or leading ISIL because they are following Wahhabism; you are being lied to about this. However most if not all within Daesh want a united Caliphate, if their soldiers knew this fact then they would put down their arms. In theory, I would let them create their own state in Iraq but the reality is that many of the Wahhabists will not stop fighting. It is a matter of saving the ones who don't want to fight because it is illogical to allow them to strike those around them; this is bad for both sides. It's not that I want or don't want to hurt them; it's that I have to. This is not about revenge for what they've done; it's about keeping the next generation safe regardless if we are depicted as the aggressors in their eyes. Many of these people including the fighters are innocent, think twice about hating these people. We can't bump them into another country, they are people too. Hopefully we can ship the ones who are not Iraqi citizens back to their home countries because I feel it is not fair for the Iraqi's. If the only answer is moving them into Kuwait for them to deal with, then that's what will happen but that is the last possible resort. What makes Daesh such a threat to Islam is that they will fight where ever the Caliphate is present within the map. That means half of Africa, almost all of West Asia, Spain, a part of South Russia, almost all of South Europe and all of the Middle East could be struck at any time. That's why one of them killed a police officer in Saudi Arabia. They keep attacking in Chechnya; we can only give the people of Chechnya their independent country if they get rid of them. They support killing innocents in other countries but they do not, Al Nusra Front does. We have to get these people out of European countries so they won't strike us. It makes no sense to try to reason with them.

We have to shut down all of their "Mosques" and throw them in jail right now. We can even work with the Muslims in South Europe, they are on our side. What these people are doing in Europe is not Islamic because they are conquering the West but are doing it in hiding. It's not working too, it makes people hate Islam. They are massive hypocrites because they do not allow for people to mass migrate to Qatar. They are not allowed to breed an ethnicity out of existence. I knew this was not a joke when I saw that Nimr Al Nimr along with 46 others, most of who were Sunni's were executed for "espionage", people are trying to do the right thing. Do not protest there, you have been warned. There will not be independence there, you put others lives at risk, you get up and leave if you don't agree with it. What people don't get in the west, Saudi Arabia could be fixed in under a year, it is a dump; so many people there are so rude or are just strange and are nothing like the West. They really think they are the best thing to happen to the world but they are not aware that nobody likes them, if not for money they would not be welcomed in to other countries, people would laugh at them rightly so. People want to leave Saudi Arabia, they would too if not for the money. You get no freedom in these countries at all, look at Bahrain, their government now has to go; nobody wants that worthless monarch. You people who do nothing are either selfish or are stupid to let this go on, the West always blames Islam; you are the problem, not them. You don't wreck the image of Islam by sitting around and doing nothing about it, you are the last person to be allowed to run a country. You think Islam has to pick up for your slack, NO! You have to be accountable, that's how it works or leave, please leave nobody likes you. These people's denomination does not have a marriage age, GROSS!

Someone who thought this up is so sick I don't even know where to begin. WARNING, BAD, SKIP THESE NEXT FEW SENTECES IF YOU ARE NOT READY TO READ THEM! Don't fall into believing that Wahhabism is doing what is best for Islam, that's what they want you to think. No Muslim sends an airstrike on a wedding in Yemen on innocent civilians, there are just things we as human never do even in revenge no leader does something like that. That is beyond awful, I can't put it in words how stupid many people in the West are to overlook it but somehow blame Islam. It's worse than that, no person in Yemen attacked the Saud's ever. I don't need to study Islam to know that is never allowed. The UN has failed the world for sweeping this under the rug; someone clearly owns it because I would not allow an ally to buy their way out of this, it would be the last day I had them as an ally infact I would seek their demise for ordering such an attack. Islam does not allow the killing of innocents; that is terrorism. Killing innocents is not a just cause which is what Jundullah who is funded by America, Saudi Arabia, Israel and Al-Qaeda is doing in Iran and Pakistan. That's why Muslims in America get so passionate when people harass them, because they know they themselves personally are not killers. To make matters worse, 50,000 children have died as a result of starvation from the Saud food Red Sea blockade.

Finally, they say we are against Islam for preventing foreign fighters from other countries to come into the Middle East to fight the wars. What they are doing is illegal based on borders. No country would accept foreigners who try to conquer them, the same goes for Syria. While I'm fine with foreign fighters when two countries go to war or if one country invades another and needs them to protect it, I don't support foreigners during a civil war since it is amongst the people living in the country. Most would agree with my stance on this. What I can't get over is that first the US government wrecks the Iraqi military, and imposes a group with foreign fighters and trained fighters in Iraq to use on the Iraqi civilians. The Iraqi's can't fight to hold them off because all of the US weapons and tanks were handed to Daesh. Meanwhile Daesh is being bombed by many countries so it is either join Daesh or leave Iraq. Daesh in no way reflects the Iraqi people and others will not see past that. Thankfully there is the Iraq military to help out, they saved the day even if the Sunni's despise the Shiite's who run the military. So next time someone says "we keep America safe, this country is not safe without us" boldly, think of what you've just done to innocent people.

Both Salafists and Wahhabists are part of ISIL which means they accept each other, I am not sure exactly if the real purpose of them is a common cause or if they would fight each other. This also includes Ibadi in Oman as an enemy of Islam it had come up at around the year 900, if that was the year it is than I don't dispute it as Islamic, my report says that it came up at around the year 1920 after the end of WWI. Oman is still the enemy because of its leaders. The religion the enemy puts first is Talmudism. Wahhabism was invented back in the 18th century by a British spy called Hempher to end the Ottoman Empire by killing all non Wahhabists. The Ottoman Empire was overwhelmingly Sunni and this meant that it would divide Sunni's with each other to get them to go to battle. This report was later published by the Ottoman Empire for the public to view.

Muhammad Wahhab, a man living in the desert had worked with the Saud family who are crypto Jews meaning they retained their "Jewish" beliefs with Islamic practices. Wahhab's friend Muhammad bin Saud is of Jewish descent as well from the Jew (Mardakhai bin Ibrahim bin Mushi). This meant that they retained their Talmudism while picking up Islamic practices as a way of going into hiding. Muhammad bin Saud saw a great opportunity to have a friend who would kill Islamic people with the help of the British which would bring Saud closer to his goal of the Third Temple, as long as Saud did Wahhab Wahhabism in the newly formed Saudi State, they would work together as one. This is why Muammar Gaddafi was unable to meet with the Saud King because he would go in hiding, they would even shut off his microphone when he spoke at times. We believe that Muhammad fought these types of people for good but they never left Arabia, they were still a minority a thousand years later. All it takes is one clan who blended in with the public in order to hide their identity. Wahhab who was living in Basra Iraq was described as a "young hothead" who sounds awfully familiar to Karl Marx. Wahhab was from Najd

Arabia but was kicked out for telling others to use traditions that were not in the Sunnah (just reading that is hilarious, they would keep adding and removing traditions because of him). They even gave him a chance to make his case which he was not able to. Wahhab held such beliefs that Jews and Christians were sorcerers and devil worshippers, or simply couldn't accept that he couldn't get his way. To relate this to today, how often do you see someone in their 20's on Fox News attempt to require others to pay for their college? If you don't do what they want, you're a racist. Point being, they can't accept being wrong. This stuff happens, Wahhab thought it was acceptable to have all Sunni's executed because he thought there were practices in the Sunnah were not there, he couldn't get his way. Without a doubt, this is evil at its core; Wahhab was a Sunni killer, anything but a scholar of Islam. It's easy for a country like China to add and subtract to their constitution yet their constitution was inspired by the West, how unjust is that? They know where they get the overwhelming majority of their laws from, do something different or else or don't plagiarize. Back in the 18th century in Ottoman Arabia, their citizens knew not to fight others who had their own practices yet they do not get the credit they deserve, they are just painted by others as "stupid people who couldn't read the Quran". How ironic is it that these people were engaged in their society but in America they cannot get 40% of the country to vote get people to vote? I wanted to bring people back to 1920 stand of society, yet that society would easily carry over into today. At this point, I can't even tell you which one is better. More irony that while many were illiterate, they went to Mosques and shared material with others, much was agreed upon, they may not have needed to be able to read and write, I would have to look into the conversations they had with each other.

It all makes sense because the British would not just hand Kuwait over its independence, Kuwait even fought on their side in WWI. Even back in the 18th century, the British would find people who would defect from empires and these would be two people who would do so. Don't quote me on this, but I bet good money that an original source will say that Wahhabism was invented as its own thing and not as Sunni, the goal was to execute all Sunni's after all, it would be passed off as a "new movement", I highly doubt it would be inside of Sunni because if it was than people in the 18th century would side with the Sunni's and not the Wahhabists. Why is this important? They have to declare to the public that they are not Sunni, they have not; this would wreck them internally. Salafists meanwhile are hiding inside of Sunni. They would have to call Wahhabism "New Wahhabism" which they will not do, then people will know the British invented it, from there they would reform it because these people are duped, they know it started in the 18th century but they do not know where it originated from. Think about it, if the citizens knew the British invented it then they would do the exact opposite so they have to keep persecuting Shiite's in Arabia under several lies. A good way to think of it is the "Wahhabi ideology"; you wouldn't call it Sunni Islam since no source since Muhammad says to wage war with other Muslims. I know for a fact Abu Bakr would not do that, and you have no clue what Abu Bakr would do today, I am confident he would reach a ceasefire; he felt he was "liberating the world". It matters not if they are Wahhabists that just means they have different methods of the same goal same with Conservatism and Socialism. There is going to be disagreement amongst them and they are ok with it even if they get mad at each other; that's politics explained for you. Bashar and I both do not regard it as Islamic in any way. The Taliban does not obey the Wahhabists but probably out of a mistake or they still accept any help I wouldn't know since I don't study Islam extensively, the Taliban can join forces by Al Qaeda's side. My guess is that it was by accident because they would not hand over Osama Bin Laden and it was only a month after 9/11 but they knew he would be executed for a crime they didn't think he committed. But somehow it took the US government over 10 years to find him after the invasion of Afghanistan. They keep attacking Kurds in Turkey for this exact reason and the Kurds keep getting financial funding from Syria.

These people ban Bibles in Saudi Arabia; they want you to think the Quran is separate when the Quran mentions both the Bible and Torah by name! Read this one verse and tell me who is right (this is in reference to Jesus) "We gave him the Gospel containing guidance and light, verifying that which was before it of the Torah, and guidance and an admonition for the dutiful" Quran 5:46. Are you seriously arguing that there is not guidance and light in the Bible? If that is not ridiculous enough, these people are taught "the Crusades have never ended", can you find one Christian in the entire world who seeks to force convert these people? Writing some of this material makes me wonder if they are serious or not, don't you trade with these countries? That would make you so stupid to do so, you would have to run the other countries politicians in effort to prevent these Christian Americans who will "stop at nothing" to force convert you when the ones who really don't like you just don't want you in their countries probably because you would try banning the Bible wait till they are told that, go poll this information, I'm right. Go up to one of these people and introduce yourself if they walk away, then they don't even care about your country. What you are guilty of is slander by claiming that they are plotting to overthrow your beloved Saudi Arabia. Another problem is that they can't be stopped, often times they are recruited from the internet however I've noticed an imam in his 50's saying "ban tom and jerry"; this sprung me into action without me second guessing what he had just said. I should add that the mistake people make is they think the text being the hadith's are responsible, when it is the exact opposite; it is preachers not the knowledge being given.

I had known these people are liars all along, I thought the Saud's were scared about being shut down by America. Also, if it turns out today that the Saud family is passing off Hadith's written by their scholars as fact and expectation, they are in serious trouble. I don't need to tell you this because you know they have to sign off what they've written in Hadith's. That isn't something you just brush off. Every single Saudi Arabia supporter is a fake Donmeh Jew! I estimate at least 20 million supporters between the Arab Gulf Council, add on Jordan, Pakistan, and Turkey and you are looking at around 220 million fake Donmeh Jews. There is no way around it, they take pride in targeting Shiite's in Arabia but they don't evict them knowing that Islamic scholars will pick up that they are evil. They know their citizens aren't very wise, if they saw Shia Islam as better than most of their citizens would "convert", they don't want all of this scrutiny; they just think Islam means scrutiny that is the truth. I am the one who is not trying to make fun of you, the way I see it you are not my friend, I am just trying to protect others from going to jail because of you taking the Quran as a distraction; nobody is passing judgment on you, I can't imagine 20 plus years of these people who hate all people of Iraq. I will gladly give you Sunni Islam since you hate Iran. Why can't we just go back to the Ottoman days? I want to get along with you, you don't have to get scrutiny for women not being able to vote and no I'm not using women against you I'm showing what is in it for you. You have people glad to leave your country; I could yell that on the top of my lungs just to get you to listen. Thankfully there are no supporters between Lebanon, Iraq, Egypt, Yemen, Iran, and Syria. Just remember that if this was your eighth time reading this and you finally gave me the chance I deserve, I did not give up on you.

We can't talk the Wahhabists into striking the enemy first since there are many people who claim to be Islamic who support the enemy in wars against us. If they were not a third party in the war, they would be exposed rightly since that is picking a side unless if the enemy agreed to hand these claiming to be Islamic over to them already which could be possible, we would have to ask first. They will keep arming ISIL to use on specifically the Muslims. It is important people get this because Jews and Christians are never to be targeted so long as they are a minority in the areas they want (view map). They do everything in hiding which is illegal in Islam since they have to declare war on us first. This is why you want Iran instead of them on our side because they fight by our side. Allah knows the Christians will help out those who are under attack; they are required to fight them. We will protect them at all costs in our countries even if worst comes to worse and we are the only ones left to keep them safe. We will even let them take refuge in our countries, we will not hand them over to you, ever. Whatever genocide Wahhabists are doing will not work. The Wahhabists at the top are definitely in on it if they are funding the "Muslim Brotherhood." I will never support them, or allow them to attack us. Even if all Muslims were Wahhabists they would still side with the enemy and let us get attacked, they would never arm us against the enemy. It states very clearly in the Quran that "there must be no coercion in matters of faith" Quran 2:256. I humbly view this as anticipation of the Sunni, Shiite. And do not take take any human beings life- that Allah willed to be sacred - other than [in the pursuit of] justice" Quran 17:33. They would not send us into the west as invaders, they wouldn't do that if they could get away with it and that's a fact. I know the Salafist movement is an offshoot, whatever they do in foreign countries is fraud, deport every single last one of them; I will leave it at that. It matters not if Osama Bin Laden was a CIA agent although he probably wasn't. He was also described as a hero in the fight against the Soviets in Afghanistan by American media, there is a newspaper of it that you can find online. This is coming from someone who would have been excited to fund him against the Soviet Union in the 80's because I would have much rather have been under his leadership than the Soviet Union with the knowledge Qatari princess Shaikha Salwa and Saudi prince Majed bin Abdullah bin Abdulaziz, if these people are doing this on weekends since this definitely was not the first time for them and they don't see the damage they are doing for their home country, then let's hope for their countries to end and for them to be sent to America. These three cases were under in a three month span, that's not an accident. I don't think they got the beating of a lifetime; they don't deserve your honor.

Like the rest of the people of the Middle East, those fighting against us in Syria do what you think is best for Islam and they only accept what is best for Islam even if that means fighting, I can admire that dedication. Bashar and I both agree that Syria will go in the wrong hands if the war is lost which means Lebanon will fall with it, so the war must be won on our parts. The answer I have come up with is allowing the Sunni troops to form their own troops with their own Sharia Law separate of the military where they decide when to go to war and when not to as long as they do not attack Syria directly. This gives them the freedom to attack neighbors when they deem it necessary and Syria will protect them. A united Syria gives us a chance to better the economy instead of deciding what is ours and what is theirs which could lead to border disputes.

Saudi Arabia Failure

- are taught the Crusades are still ongoing

- are taught all Christians go to hell for all of eternity

- their country helped fund 9/11

- America is their ally while America is the Zionist ally

- they harass Shiites

- ban all churches and synagogues

- they dress women to where you can't see their faces in public

- they write in fake hadith's (uh oh)

- introduced the niqab

- label atheists as "terrorists" (I'm without words)

The US government is caught in the biggest lie yet. The 9/11 families seek justice. Many in congress believe that the Saudi government is linked to 9/11. The Saudis cannot dispute it given the intelligence the Saudi government had and the money that would have been involved to have the attack happen. At the very least, they didn't do enough to stop the 15 citizens living in Saudi Arabia. The Saudi government does not want the stigma of an attack they claim they were not responsible for, they've threaten sanctions which may or may not be a mistake since us USA citizens will perceive it as them lying. Congress has allowed for the families to sue Iran although there is no link whatsoever. The Saudi government does not want the "28 pages" that would convince most they were responsible for 9/11. If the Saudi government was responsible, why was there no action taken? Was it because of oil deals? This is classified as a conspiracy theory. Never mind this; Saud government is on the same team as our enemy. My only guess is that they don't want hostility towards American and the Saudi Arabian people since they are both on the same side and an invasion would mean the two might not want to be on the same side which they will need to be to conquer Syria. If Saudi Arabia was involved, why was there no invasion? This all relates since we got two wars in Afghanistan and Iraq from it. We know Osama Bin Laden didn't do 9/11 since he took arms from America in the 80's against the Soviets.

If the schools taught beginners ethics to kids at a young age, that would end Turkey for good. I know they are not teaching ethics in Turkey. Even if it took two years to teach them and they fell behind in math, which is more important for Turkey's labor force? Most jobs don't require more than a calculator. Do people not realize how easy this is? The youth could tutor the adults about how stealing is not ok rather than have people risk getting caught and going to jail. Give me 20 years, I could turn the whole country around people would be so upset. See, us Westerners aren't messing around, I could teach the youth how strong the Ottoman Empire was. That's not Turkey's land; it is ours I don't recognize Turkey Turkey's days are limited. The thought just hit me; do people of Turkey deserve this? Did they have a choice? I know Italy didn't but in America 90% of people get a chance when they get older they learn from their youth. How many in Turkey actually get a chance to debate us? Are they proud of their country? Do they accept being the laughing stock of the world? This is a yes or no for them to accept that their country has failed. You don't allow Al Nusra Front to enter from Turkey into Syria, that is grounds for Syria to invade Turkey. Turkey's President wants an all out war with Syria, Iran will not let this escalate they need Syria to be stable. It would be a good thing for Turkey to enter an all out war with each other. At least with Saudi Arabia they treat other nations with respect, they don't send people to other countries to make a fool out of themselves and end up in jail.

These people care so much about their family's safeties and for Iraq that they would have a drawing of Muhammad in a room and would bunk with Shiite's. I do not condemn them or look to bash them but I will never support requiring those who require this to join the Iraqi military. Let there be division if you are to do this, you must give up the practice, not them. Don't worry Sunni's; someone's got your back and I know there is much more at stake than that alone, but I had to make that point clear. You bet I support all three of the Ba'athist Party Loyalists groups. Put down your weapons immediately or else you will die. If that is what you want than I cannot stop you but why would I want someone like you to die? You never wished death on me and plus more dedicated Iraqi's the better, you have some place in Iraq even if it isn't going the way we all hope for. However, nowhere in Ba'athism does it say "have fewer members" so if you want to make that argument I'm here to argue with you, maybe one of you will agree with me. The President of America Barack Obama has stated on several occasions that he is arming "moderate Sunni opposition" groups in Iraq. Since America is fighting Daesh and will win, this means he is trying to kill you since the war is effectively over. My thought is that they were hoping you would push into East Iraq and capture it from the Shiites while leaving Daesh in the West and the Kurds would join them. Iran would then invade on behalf of the Shiites and then America or Turkey would step in to attack Iran to keep Iran contained at their borders in an effort to prevent them from sending troops to Lebanon. Daesh who "accidentally" inherited most of America's weapons were better equipped than the Iraqi military. I am glad for your safety they lost. America overthrew your government so never trust them, don't take arms from them ever. The last thing he wants is for you to win. You even know these groups who have joined forces with you will fight you when they deem it necessary, what makes you think you will win? Some are good and fit in great in Iraq such as Jamaat Ansar Al-Sunna and the Islamic Front for the Iraqi Resistance to name a few, I trust them and I would be more than willing to accept them as one of my own in America if they were to ever migrate here. But most within other groups are willing to kill you to win and right now those who stand in your way have the weapons and the numbers. Many fighters in the other groups mean you no harm but most likely not defect and could think that by killing you that is better for Iraq when we know that to be false. I could be wrong about others meaning to do you harm; I haven't interviewed a single fighter in Iraq. I'd also like to add that any group with Islam or Jihad in their title now scares much of the West in case you didn't know. The first thing that comes to their mind is "they will attack America."

We also have to take into account the image of Iraq from the West, much of the youth might not care or think "good, they hate us" but when they see war after war, it only makes them further their belief that Iraq will never be stable or cannot come to a ceasefire when I know otherwise. Iraq is much bigger than what's right in front of you, its image is so important for us to win. If that wasn't enough to convince you otherwise than I don't know what will because I have spent many hours to help you out here in America and this is how you repay me? Someone finally cares enough for you to speak up and you resort to arms when I've proven that it is not the answer when the war is clearly over. This can worsen in the future because radicals will be created out of your friends and they could commit acts that not one of us ever wished on them. Just like you, I respect, appreciate, and honor the commitment Saddam Hussein gave to Iraq. Maybe someday in your lifetimes Ba'athism will rise again in Iraq; I would enjoy seeing that reality. Ba'athism will always be in Iraq and you can inspire hope in future generations for it to reign. You have made your statement; many people you've never met now have respect for you. How many people can say "I fought in a war"? Allah sees more potential in you than I could comprehend. Things will be tough, but don't give up, we need you. I would never harm you, only reason with you so you wouldn't separate or consider forming a state within a state which I find illegal. Your demands are not unreasonable. If only they would put down their weapons because their loyalty is too much at this time. If there was such a way I would create West Iraq but make absolute sure that East Iraq supports it knowing that we are on the same team at the end of day. This would include those in the Free Syrian Army who do not want to live under Bashar Al Assad. I want what you want. Even if you think Sunni/Shiite should resent each other, can we not as a whole care for one another? Do you want to see them dead, is that what you want? I can't possibly relate so I'm not here to tell you "I'm right" and act like I would do better than you because I doubt it. If one side feels threatened, put forces at the border that way we know who wants war since it will take an effort to start a skirmish of sorts, you have my word that it will never be more than light which is a start.

Bahrain fears Secularism the Shiite's in Bahrain have no ties with Iran they could just do their own thing. Iran only supports allies, not coups of people who don't support Iran and are neutral because they would have to fund them by their own Sharia Law. The enemy would know if Iran were to fund them, they are not tempting them it must be to anger the Shiite's around the world. Some Sunni's aren't getting it; Syria doesn't need Sunni- Sharia Law to defend itself, these people can easily move to Turkey it's like they are looking out for where the conflict is like a dog would, it shows that they don't trust Allah by accident! Allah states "I got this under control, we will win together". Bashar has to keep saying "put your arms down, no repercussions" he knows why they are fighting. The basis of the Quran is no forced conversions, no killing innocents, and no starting a war for no reason. I don't deny that there are "Radical Islamic terrorists", there are people who think that they should attack other nations, but that's not Islam; neither Zoroastrians nor Christians do that. If we are going to call those people terrorists, then the entire US military is a terrorist organization, their tactics are to strike fear on their enemies. See how it can be used on any military in the world?

For this whole "Middle Eastern Terrorism" to be an actual threat, there would have to be a terrorist attack every week in America killing 1,000. This isn't even close to a nuclear threat. Each nuke can kill at least 30 million; both Russia and America average a total of 7,000! You don't stockpile nukes, who does that? Nukes are meant to prevent war or to use on your enemy if they want to destroy you. If this were my choice, I would have "Operation Prevent Russia." It would be just enough to wreck their country, not to end all Russians I know there is incentive too for the country with nukes; it would be cowardly to expect one country to hold them and be allies so there would have to be an economic incentive involved. Why do they have stupid names for them too like "Hurricane" shouldn't it be "these people can't be trusted with a country"? Syria is incapable of getting nukes, that is an accuse for America to invade after the civil war, there would be no anti-war marches. This includes all of NATO and SCO; you can't have them as an ally. I'm telling you that you cannot fight for a countries military like that nor fly a flag of theirs. We would have to shut off all trade with these countries.

This material can be dangerous for the people in the Middle East. If you teach a kid the Quran front and back, they could end out believing all of it without asking questions later on in life which means that they will respond with "no thanks" if you question the Quran instead of them defending themselves. I don't know for sure if that happens, I'm sure they would look up why they agree with the Quran but I know that some can get too angry. Worse, they could disobey Bashar's orders to go to work instead of go to war. This is only in Egypt where it became a huge issue. If they think that unemployment for example goes against Islam, they could think he is the enemy instead of seeing how it is important to keep him in office. That's why they kept airing the Egyptian Revolution, it wasn't for my entertainment to see protests in a massive scale, it was to make the world talk about it they wanted a victory. This makes perfect sense because they did not show the Bahrain Protests which were legitimate. This has to be why in the Bible it says "children, obey your parents" it would say "children read the Bible front and back" but Allah didn't want that, there are other fields such as math to study. Not to mention, we don't want to get the child to read the Bible front and back, we want the kid to go out and have a good time, that way the kid meets new people they can trust. It's hard because we want the child to pray, but I feel that we can only teach children so much of these Holy Books, no more than 30 pages if that. The best kids we can get are free thinkers; then we can give the teenager all of the Bible's answers if they are to ask. When they get older, they can choose to take interest in it. I would want the young adult to ask me "why did he say these are good ethics? Why is this so important to him? Why does he think this book makes him a much better person?" We just don't know the age, we should not lure them in, make them go to us. I am a firm believer that there are only so many people in Christian nations who will take interest in the Holy Books.

Never watch TV again! The commentators on your news stations and online blogs keep naming massacres, events, unfair criticism of Islam in a row that is a chant! Sean Hannity even uses his fingers to count what he dislikes about Islam and their humble view of women. These hosts are paid to do it and I've had it. They yell during the shows, they like sports, they uses speeches to real you in (very important point right here), they are relatable, they all love America, they have TMZ like shows (the Five), they have some unlikeable guests to promote their brand, have attractive women and they have experience and they try to reach a fan base. What I've also come to notice is that their interviews are like open conversations, they don't allow their guests to answers questions fully it's like they are in a rush to get done, they want short answers to deep questions. They even bring up the past to use as a narrative in which I did not live in so back off! I get my own opinion on the past don't I? Don't even try to speak on my behalf TV commentators. Sean this is for you, let me decide what Islam is and what it isn't. When you use phrases like "Radical Islam" you purposely don't quote the Quran to help your viewers better understand what they view as their enemy. How many of them have read a Quran? How many more of them read one verse and say "yep I don't like it"? I know these people I went to college with them and I really think if I sat down and showed it to them, maybe they would like it but not do what is in it. Someone else may say "I can live in one of these countries, I pay high taxes here and the Quran is against high taxation." I can at least help them so they realize how minor these disagreements are, you the analyst are nowhere these people and I bet many of them could be your friend in real life, do you really think you would have none at all? Did you think for a second that many people in these countries say "yeah I don't agree with that either" you will be glad to know that anything at all controversial are in the Hadith's you don't have to do what is in it. It wouldn't even be brought up this isn't something to address, it says "there must be no coercion in faith"! Go look at how Syria, Lebanon, and Egypt are run, they have Secular governments, this is compatible with the West! It especially bothers me because many of the youth want to explore the world but they will skip these countries to take a stand thinking that the people of Iran want to hurt them when they will walk away if America is brought up and there is disagreement. Iran's leaders would say "American's don't come here" because now we have camera phones and you can now record someone yelling in Persian at you if it were to ever happen. Wouldn't you think it would be all over the news if an American was attacked in Iran when they tell you everyday it seems that 7 Americans are being "held hostage" there?

I know the laws in Iran are stricter than America, whether or not I agree with them means nothing because I know for a fact I can live there for at least two weeks it wouldn't be terrible for me. These countries want you to form your own opinion of them; it's not just about the money. Thankfully it is not about politics either because you are able to go back home and say "hey I don't mind Iran or the Iranian people I understand their laws now I don't agree with these laws but I respect them and people there don't mind these laws at all. I would much rather elections every four years but these people love their Supreme Leader. I don't think there should be Mosques at every corner but that is what they want, I have to respect that and I will." I compare this to an amusement park you went to and didn't like; you never called their owners and told them what to change. These are serious times and if you read that thinking that you would respond that way, we see eye to eye because you know not everything in America you agree with. One more point, America you cannot bring in immigrants from overseas, expect people to love football, and then inform them about your commentators opinion of Islam. Someone who is a hardcore Jets fan will agree with me that Muhammad Wilkerson is impossible not to like, if I asked the fan why he didn't like M. Wilkerson being Islamic the fan would say "I like him I just don't like his religion" which is an illogical comment because our religions give us our morals! You accepted him, he accepted you that's how it works he signs autographs after all. His friendliness towards others has been handed down for generations so has yours, when the first family member dating back to 650 AD or so became Islamic, they picked up these morals they had to be taught them not realizing that helping Islam had helped them in the real world or else no one in America would know M. Wilkerson because could not have played football in a foreign country because we most if not all Americans are not Islamic. I'm telling you this because M. Wilkerson is doing his best for the Jets, he could easily cash in on the contract he just got and say "haha, Americans picked the wrong one!" MOVE!!!!!!!!

War is not a joke; it is always the last option only if your government is threatened, we have to teach the youth about this many people here now know America cannot patrol a country and expect it to end times are far different now you cannot go to war with your neighbor and expect it to end like in 1910 though I doubt you could occupy a land of people who oppose you in those times. Some wars just don't end; people threatened in their own country don't want to lose that's how I know someone is funding Hamas with very bad intent. I have to look the other way when I see civilians in these rallies for Hamas, its one thing having the youth die it's another thing having your son or daughter support Hamas by walking along with them acting like it is a good thing and Hamas has a bright future when it does not. I just know if this one girl who was walking in it was targeted (I can point at who on in it) she would be yelling "daddy, daddy!" Why they even post these videos on the internet I don't know. There are terrorists' attacks that happen around the world attacks you know this, there have always been instances of torture in war that's a sign that a country really wants to win people don't want to torture you they want to scare your troops in to surrendering Hamas executes their own citizens after all. I know you know this but this is how you can explain it to someone, you buy my book you will get good notes. There is just a chance that Hamas can sit down with their citizens and ask "how can we get the West to trust us? We trust in what we are doing." I know this is best because Ayesha Gaddafi bless her heart brought photos of dead civilians to Western journalists during the Libyan War not only for the Libyans to know she will do something she wasn't to do but for me as well to know of the repercussions this could have destabilizing a foreign country. That's why Iran has these big rallies; they want you to be scared of them because they feel attacked by the US government this is their response they chant "death to America" in masses after all. I would be chanting "death to Iran" if Canada was invaded by them. I saw his funeral; these people had to be forced away from the plane carrying him please tell me you see the difference between that war and 18 year olds going to war in the Gaza as a way of revenge infact if the Hamas leaders were to die in a war they would be angry or not care at all. I tell you this because I will get you to realize that Iran will not attack America, they love what Iran has become too much to die in a conflict started by their government; you have to look beyond movies about Iranians I just ask that you are neutral with them, know that they are ready if America strikes them. Please listen carefully reader; many Americans have to be released from the chains of the US government they think they support who wants to make them their slaves. Iran is a liberator who would help give these people a Christian Sharia Law, although Iran is not the government I would want, we gladly accept them as an ally. You may never get that feeling of ignoring what the enemy wants us to believe.

Here is why China is never to be trusted- their leaders only care about money and their image of China. If it benefits them to not help out in a war, they will do so. Your only only concern cannot be China's benefit, that's not how it works, people will hate you abroad and they will see beyond it. Someone in their country is going to speak up and if the citizens in the country find out, they will think you want hegemony over them if the leaders get kicked out and you help out. They won't want you, the country will be unstable. You make for a terrible ally because you have no concern for your allies, your allies will betray you. You've made an environment where it's only about money so when the money isn't good, they will dump you overnight and let the West invade because they don't tolerate it. How are you going to tell me the money is best when you hide information from your own citizens? It makes them look like they have bad morals. Because they only care about money, that means that they will start accepting bribes to not speak up about the enemy which for many instances is lying to your own people it in no way puts them in danger to tell them. Their people are stupid too, this is Allah's earth you don't have two children but have one of them in America to avoid paying a fine. If one of them called me a "fatass American" I would say "no, I serve Allah, you however do not".

I swear if I'm the only one who gets this so be it but someone else has to get this. The early Muslims wrote the Hadith's to keep you safe, that's why they sign off on it so you know who wrote it! What Muslims do is in the name of Islam it matters not if it is Sunni or Shiite even if you hated the other sect, don't because one is strike first the other is wait to get attacked then strike these are big differences I can't stress it enough. They knew people would disagree with parts of the Hadith's; there has always been division it is foreshadowed in the Bible too. If I were a Christian in Europe and I did something terrible to win a war in order to get some land back against Muslims and I added to the Hadith's, I lied about who signed off on it, I could do generations of damages that I NEVER intended for. You can make generations of soldiers who will force convert and kill Muslims which by definition is friendly fire and it is killing innocents who won't do it. The conversation I would have with Allah and believe me I would be yelling I would say "I'm sorry Allah, I didn't mean what had happened from it and you know it. I tried to confuse and divide them that way I could force them out, I never intended to have them kill each other! What has come I have no clue 100 years of infighting, terrible! I thought we were working together Allah! I was King of Hungary, we were going to end slavery together you chose me to be leader! Who is this Muhammad and what does he know that I don't?! I'm the King of Hungary, NOT HIM! I didn't claim to be a Prophet many of this stuff go against the New Testament and that's your word Allah I am with you. Jesus rose from the dead, Muhammad didn't even put that event in the books he claims to be Holy! These people almost conquered us, isn't this what you wanted Allah, for us to win? Good if all the Muslims lose, RIGHT?!!!" I would be 100% wrong in this theoretical conversation with Allah. I needed to tell you this because I can prove that Wahhabism is not Islam. You have to study the Quran and decide on your own if it is acceptable to kill and force convert other Muslims, then you have to tell us why, this is your own study of the Quran, you would be writing your own Hadith to be debated amongst other Muslims. I say this in part because I have overwhelming confidence in the Quran and the Hadith's of both Sunni's and Shiite's that these actions are never tolerated. What these people are doing in Yemen is wrong, they know it.

If your Sharia Law has failed your people whether Holy and accepting of others or not, your nation (divided Libya) must collapse to better society, it will fall on its own nobody disagrees with me. We are trying to form empires and to keep others safe, if you fight us, you will be taken out. You bare responsibility for this war, not I. I allow you to keep your Ansar Al Sharia flag. I care not your anger towards me; you are acting on emotion whereas I am acting on reason which always tops emotion. If taking out your town is best for the next generation, it will be done.

Not all black flags are "Wahhabist" or "Salafist", it is true that they are rebels but many are just protecting their land with their own Sharia Law. Ansar Al Sharia and ISIS in Libya have good intentions of protecting their own land, not force converting others. No, I do not support either of them; I just don't want to see them get hurt because they are requesting a ceasefire, they are people just like you and me. I have my own Sharia Law based on the Quran. I have to get you familiar with these terms because you have your own Sharia Law; you just are unfamiliar with the term, it means religious law...... you have democracy in your country, who do you vote for? You say "politics" we say "religion". This is our religious law; our candidates we vote for reflect this, some translate it to Secularism which is what you support. So when I say "their Sharia Law is failing parts of Africa", what I am saying is that my Sharia Law will prevail. I don't have all the answers so my Sharia Law is not perfect. Sharia Law never fails, your European countries had Christian Sharia Law back in 1910; this is fact, look at their Christian flags for the German Empire for example. Some are reformists; I'm not sure exactly what they mean by it, I will tell you that it improves itself through the years. A good spokesperson of Sharia Law is Dr. Shabir Ally, if you notice he has a beard and wears an Arabic cap, I do not. Some may consider it if you follow the Quran, I do not.

People want to believe that good wins in today's wars. Every government says that they are serving their country but no one bothered to ask if they are good or not. That's how evil wins in countries, how many people would believe you even after you showed them that Hitler is not a killer? After all, people see what is right infront of them some just respond with "hegemony" or something strange like "keeping the country safe" and Iraq is too far away from America for a war. In theory if Iraq had invaded Kuwait as revenge, who cares? Let them do it and then end them instead ruin your countries image. Just look at the borders of South Korea, there are troops everywhere. Kuwait could have defended against another attack or at the very least seen troops coming and called the US to attack with airstrikes in time. Kuwait isn't dumb, they would gladly pay for US contractors in exchange of oil, they wouldn't gamble because then it costs that much more to send in US troops, now there is more fighting to be done!!!

The current year in a Hebrew calendar is 5777. That leaves us with 233 years left. They even got the years right for them to get into power, it's not over and it's not 1500 years under. It might be in my lifetime because that is the deadline for when their Anti-Christ comes, they can do Armageddon by launching nukes today if they wanted, but they won't. Get ready for "UN Mandate" countries. At our right before the deadline, they will launch nukes, I know it. The question remains when they will build the Third Temple but I doubt that is in my lifetime that will happen much later. It does not make sense to attack Cuba, it might flop and there might be 50 years of it as appose to 500. All I know about it is that they are done trying to overthrow Cuba for good. One power they have is over foreign governments is that they lit about defectors to their leaders into thinking that someone is against their own country. These people are going to do everything they can to make this event happen; they might just just let North Korea be. They helped the Soviet Union stockpile nukes after WWII, this is what they want. It makes no sense to rebuild Europe at this point. It won't get more serious than this; those who caused you trouble in the past will mean nothing now. This is a message that you accept as their end goal. It is your instructions on how to fight against them. I can almost place myself at a location where I had to shut off a detonator, I was unable to and I knew that was it for the world. I would bet my entire savings on this, they have their nukes set in their country. Don't get upset people that there are not enough people on the internet and there are not enough people will share with others what is going on in the Middle East. We can't force the enemy out of Palestine, there's no way to stop them. I have no reason to ever lose hope because I trust in Allah's plan. I will go live my life the way I want it to be with Allah's guidance.
